DIRECTORS BIOGRAPHIES

ASH THORP

Ash Thorp is internationally recognised and respected as a graphic designer, illustrator, artist, and creative director for a multitude of media, including feature films, commercial enterprises, and print. With a signature style of his own, he quickly gained recognition among the industry, most notably for his role as lead graphic designer for Ender's Game and Total Recall. He also contributed to the design direction and concepts for Person of Interest, Prometheus, X-men First Class, the Amazing Spiderman 2, and many more titles. Aside from his design work, Ash Thorp develops and directs his own passion projects. Most notable is his Ghost in the Shell tribute 'Project 2501'.

ANTHONY SCOTT-BURNS

Toronto-based Anthony Scott Burns is one of the best-known names of the new generation of storyteller filmmakers who can easily handle and combine the world of live action and VFX. A 'maker' in the truest sense (Scott Burns is also specialised within both hands-on design and VFX work), he made his name as a Senior Designer at MTV before moving on to a very successful career as a commercial director. His short film work and gift for unique storytelling has already caught the eye of Hollywood and Scott Burns is currently attached to a number of high profile projects including sci-fi feature ALPHA, written by New York Times bestselling author Daniel H. Wilson, and produced by Brad Pitt.
