

AMW Launches the AMW Suite — The All-in-One Business Platform With AI Agents Built In

Los Angeles, CA, California, United States - May 22, 2026 — AMW®, the full-service marketing and business services group, announces the launch of the AMW Suite . This purpose-built software platform consolidates CRM, proposals, client portals, funnels, content, attribution, and AI agents into a single subscription. The Suite is now open for early access at <https://amworldgroup.com/software>.

The AMW Suite is not a pivot. It is the product of a company that has spent nearly 30 years running its own business on the same methodology it is now offering to others. Where most software companies build tools in the abstract, AMW built these tools against real operations, real pipelines, real client relationships, real delivery workflows, and is now opening that infrastructure to the teams who need it most.

One Platform, From First Contact to Final Invoice

The AMW Suite is built on a single premise: most businesses are running too many tools, and almost none of them talk to each other. CRMs disconnected from tickets. Proposal tools that take hours of typing. Client portals with no real AI workers inside. Funnels that capture leads but don't optimize conversions. The AMW Suite closes those gaps — one platform, one subscription, one source of truth.

The platform covers the full commercial cycle. On the revenue side, the AI CRM manages contacts, deals, tickets, and inboxes with an embedded agent layer, making it a working system rather than a record-keeping one. The Proposals app generates, sends, and collects signatures in one flow, removing the friction between a closed deal and a signed contract. The Funnels tool captures and qualifies leads through drag-and-drop quote, quiz, and booking builders that embed anywhere.

On the delivery side, ClientHub gives clients a dedicated portal for projects, invoices, files, and messages, replacing scattered email threads and shared drives with an interface that actually reflects the professionalism of the work being done.

A Team of AI Agents Built Into the Suite

What separates the AMW Suite from conventional business software is its AI agent layer. The agents are trained with different skills to operate across the Suite and deployed in roles that reflect how businesses are actually structured.

The support agent drafts every reply for team approval. The operations and sales agent works the pipeline and advances deals with the instincts of a senior rep. The content agent turns a campaign brief into a publishing calendar. The growth agent reads the numbers and surfaces the next action. Each one reads across the full Suite, drafts in the company's voice, and ships nothing without approval — built for teams who want AI leverage without giving up editorial control.

The Suite is powered by the most capable models available, including Claude, OpenAI, Gemini, Mistral, and others, giving the platform access to the full frontier of AI capability.

Plans for Every Scale

The AMW Suite is available in three plans. Solo, at $129 per month, is built for independent operators running the full cycle alone. Team, at $199 per month, supports up to five users with access to core apps and agents. Enterprise, at $499 per month, delivers the complete Suite, every app, every agent, dedicated onboarding, and quarterly reviews for organisations running full-service operations.

All plans are available monthly with no annual lock-in. A 20 per cent discount applies to annual billing. For businesses moving off legacy infrastructure, AMW's migration team is available to assist with the transition and integration, drawing on the same 27 years of operational experience that produced the platform itself.
