

Contentful named one of the top 100 best Berlin startups

14 NOVEMBER 2017, BERLIN, GERMANY

SUMMARY

Contentful, the leading cloud-native content infrastructure company, has been named one of top 100 best Berlin startups by the 2017 edition of The Hundert. The nomination list included 250 of Berlin's most promising startups, and Contentful was selected by the jury to be part of the top 100 shortlist. The jury this year included Mike Butcher of TechCrunch, Pawel Chudzinski of Point Nine Capital, Sonali De Rycker of Accel, to name a few.

Contentful is disrupting the CMS market with a cloud-native content infrastructure that helps companies such as British Museum, Twilio, Spotify, and Urban Outfitters ship software faster. The flexible APIs and collaborative web app let developers and content creators power the content in any digital product – be it smart cars, VR, mobile, web, digital signage, or any new platform. To date, Contentful has raised close to $20M from top investors including Benchmark and Trinity.

“We are proud to be featured in the 2017 edition of The Hundert, and to be placed alongside so many incredible startups here in Berlin. It's been a year of crazy growth at Contentful and we are all excited to capitalize on the opportunities that lie ahead.” said Sascha Konietzke, CEO and co-founder of Contentful.

The Hundert brings together the founders and entrepreneurs behind one hundred Berlin-based startups every year. Its main concept is to paint a picture of the Berlin startup scene, which is dominated by online businesses. The Hundert was founded in 2013 and is the first printed magazine to talk about the Berlin startup scene. Since its first issue, nine more have been released, and there are currently 2-4 editions produced per year featuring startup scenes from around the world.
