

“Why business performance gets lost in strategy execution”

R&G Global Consultants busts management myths

Although organisations develop strategies to improve their business performance, around 70% of large organisations face difficulties when implementing their strategies. Executional excellence tops the list of global corporate leaders’ worries. Do executives hold some unjustified common assumptions about execution? For those leaders who want to improve their execution capability, R&G Global Consultants offer a series of options in their brand new white paper Why business performance gets lost in strategy execution.

R&G Global Consultants is a boutique management consultancy specialised in improving operational performance, optimising supply chains and implementing change. Managing partner Aart Willem de Wolf argues that successful companies seem to know how to move their organisation in the way they want to move: “At least when it comes to strategy execution, and what this means for business performance. These companies are aware that most strategies are not designed for execution, and in response make execution part of their strategy, right from the start.”

“Successful companies are aware that most strategies are not designed for execution, and in response make execution part of their strategy, right from the start.”

— Aart Willem de Wolf, management partner R&G Global Consultants

In their white paper Why business performance gets lost in strategy execution R&G presents insights and options to close the so-called strategy execution gap:

- What factors are driving the strategy-execution gap?
- What are some of the common myths or assumptions about execution?
- What are key risks regarding strategy execution?
- How can you assess your execution risk profile?
- What are possible actions to close the strategy execution gap?

-
-
-

Download R&G's free white paper today and learn how to improve your execution power from the business process excellence experts of R&G Global Consulting.

===

Note to editors (not for publication)

For more information on R&G Global Consultants and the white paper performance gets lost in strategy execution, please contact:

Why business

SPOKESPERSON

Aart Willem de Wolf

Managing partner

M +31 6 41 66 79 93

adewolf@rnggc.com

AartWdW

ABOUT R&G GLOBAL CONSULTANTS

R&G Global Consultants is the boutique business excellence company to accelerate your business results by improving operational performance, optimising supply chains and implementing change.

In 2004, R&G was established by former GE's Lean Sixma architect Piet van Abeelen. Since then our hands-on consultants have successfully completed more than 400 programs and projects at 120+ major companies in a variety of manufacturing industries, wholesale, retail and service businesses. Our clients value our data-driven approach as well as our focus on co-creation. Our extensive experience in change management leads generally to 10-30% improvement in processes and performance.

International offices:

Amsterdam (HQ) | Bangkok | Düsseldorf | Gijón | Guangzhou | London | New York | Paris | São Paulo

R&G Global Consultantspressroom

 Contact information

R&G Global Consultants

Strawinskylaan 3051
1077 ZX Amsterdam
The Netherlands
+31 20 301 23 13

www.rnggc.com

 Main website

 Spokesperson

Aart Willem de Wolf

Managing partner

M +31 6 41 66 79 93

adewolf@rnggc.com

 AartWdW

Erik Tieleman

Partner

M + 31 6 29 51 46 41

erik.tieleman@rngglobalconsultants.com

 TielemanErik

Ronald van der Aart

RepMen

M +31 6 43 10 31 20

ronald@repmen.com

 amazingpr

Latest Tweets

RECEIVE UPDATES

FOLLOW PRESSROOM