

The Things Network and Codebender team up

We're excited to announce our partnership with San Francisco based Codebender, a global community and code resource for hundreds of Arduino libraries and thousands of users.

We are thrilled to welcome Codebender to our family of partners. As part of this partnership our “The Things Uno” board will be part of their growing list of 84 supported boards and our LoRa library will be part of their openly available library list.

Check out their site at here and join their vibrant developer community.

The Things Network newsroom