team.blue acquires Enartia in Greece

team.blue announces that it has acquired Enartia. It is a leading domain provider in Greece and serves the local market with its brands Papaki and Top.Host. After Turkey, Bulgaria and Czech Republic last year, team.blue further expands its geographical footprint and welcomes Greece.

Founded in 2004, Enartia is a group of brands focused on Digital Empowerment with services like domain registration, hosting, WordPress and other cloud services in Greece, Albania and Serbia. It serves the local markets through its brands Papaki and Top.Host, with currently about +97K customers and +365K active domain names. With Papaki more domain focussed, Top.Host is well-known for its variety of innovative webhosting products. To date, Enartia is the only ICANN accredited Registrar in Greece.

The company ran historical in-country acquisitions in parallel with continuous strong organic growth. The current management, as well as the rest of the team headquartered in Heraklion, Crete, will remain on board. They will grow and expand the company further, now supported by and as part of the team.blue group.

With +10M inhabitants, an economy driven by small and medium businesses that require a steep acceleration of digitalisation, the Greek market is an exciting opportunity for team.blue. Consequently, team.blue is thrilled to add another high growth market to the portfolio, the 12th where it holds a leading market position.

At Enartia, our goal is to help organisations and individuals achieve their digital goals. We offer them digital empowerment. Joining a leading hosting group like team.blue will help us move our vision to the next level. We are very excited about this new opportunity for our customers and employees.

- Fragkoulis Maounis, Dimitris Anthoulakis and Aggela Anthoulaki, founders of Enartia

I'm excited about starting our success story in Greece together with Enartia. During the deal process, it was clear that Enartia shares the same amount of passion for customer success and local support. They truly are the digital enablers in Greece and thus uniquely fit our team.blue vision.
