NASA astronaut and CEOs of ENGIE and HyperloopTT speaking at rEVolution 2019

rEVolution 2019 will connect over 1000 professionals and thought leaders from around the world in Amsterdam on March 19, 2019

Amsterdam, November 8th, 2018. Thousands of cleantech experts globally have joined forces in creating sustainable solutions for mobility. rEVolution is the annual networking and idea-sharing conference that celebrates this movement and its people. Isabelle Kocher (CEO ENGIE), Ron Garan (former NASA astronaut), and Dirk Ahlborn (CEO Hyperloop) are among the speakers confirmed for the third edition of rEVolution, which will be hosted by eMobility influencer Roger Atkins. rEVolution 2019 will take place in the Westergasfabriek in Amsterdam (The Netherlands) on March 19, 2019.

Going from 500 to 1000 attendees

Last March, during the second edition of rEVolution, 515 eMobility experts from 32 countries came together in Amsterdam for a full day of inspiring keynotes and conversations aimed at answering one question: “What can we do to accelerate the adoption of electric mobility?”.

During this event, the world’s largest brainstorm on eMobility challenges took place, and Tony Seba, speakers from NIO, Bloomberg New Energy Finance, and more took to the stage to highlight the accelerated growth of eMobility and clean energy.

Connect Solutions, Realize Tomorrow

rEVolution 2019 sets out to connect solutions: solutions to polluted cities, raising sea levels, and global warming. Solutions are created by people and when people come together, when they connect, that’s when great ideas spark. However, great ideas are only useful when they are realized, which is why rEVolution 2019 will focus heavily on action—on activating the attendees through different workshops, brainstorm sessions, and keynotes to realize a change that will impact our tomorrow.
