A mobility REVOLUTION is coming to North America

Mobility professionals will gather in New York on November 12th for REVOLUTION Connected NYC: the networking conference for the mobility industry

New York City, October 17, 2019 — At this moment thousands of cleantech experts are joining forces to create sustainable solutions for the transportation industry. At REVOLUTION Connected NYC, a local edition of the annual REVOLUTION Conferences in Amsterdam, we celebrate this moment. On November 12th in New York City, all focus will be on the state of EV and clean energy in North America.

The future of sustainable transport

The primary focus of the day will be sustainable transportation, but the discussions will span the entirety of clean energy, mobility and cleantech. Everything from greener grids and battery storage solutions to rethinking the urban commute, this event will explore every innovative avenue that mobility might take. Where is electric transportation going to be in the next 20 years, and how will it impact our ability to lead a more sustainable existence? REVOLUTION Connected NYC aims to answer that question.

Why attend

Speakers and guests from all across the transportation and energy industries will be in attendance — BloombergNEF, Harley-Davidson, Zero Motorcycles, Energica, Bonnier Media, The Mobility House, Bishop Ranch, NRTC, The Port Authority of NY & NJ, ConEdison, MTA New York City Transit, Hawaiian Electric, ENGIE Impact, and EVBox.

"REVOLUTION events have become a hallmark of the eMobility industry, and we are very excited to be bring its energetic and inspirational atmosphere to North America with REVOLUTION Connected NYC."

— Mark Henderson, Head of Sales, EVBox North America
