

Dolby Congratulates 91st Academy Award Winners Including Best Sound Editing and Sound Mixing “Bohemian Rhapsody” and Best Cinematography “Roma”

Award recipients “Bao,” “Bohemian Rhapsody,” “Roma,” and “Spider-Man: Into the Spider-Verse,” showcase the filmmaking power of Dolby Vision and Dolby Atmos at Hollywood’s biggest night

LOS ANGELES, Feb 24, 2019 – Dolby Laboratories celebrates the talented winners of this year’s 91st Academy Awards who utilized Dolby’s immersive audio-visual technologies within their captivating filmmaking. Dolby is proud to partner with filmmakers, artists, and creatives who have utilized Dolby Vision imaging – providing incredible brightness, contrast, and color – and the immersive flowing audio of Dolby Atmos, bringing their stories to life.

- Dolby audio-visual technologies were in eight Oscar winning films this year.
- Since the release of Star Wars in 1978, movies with Dolby sound technology have won 66 Oscars in the categories of Sound Mixing, Sound Editing, and Sound Effects Editing.
- The 91st Academy Awards marked the seventh year the Oscars was held at the Dolby Theatre.

Today Dolby honors the following nominees and winners, and their achievement in the craft of filmmaking, who have tapped into the power of Dolby audio and imaging technologies to immerse viewers in their creative vision.
