What can you do with a touchscreen earbud charging case?

More than simply charge and store your earbuds. A smart charging case puts useful listening controls and personalization options at your fingertips, making it easier to manage your audio without having to reach for your phone. The JBL Smart Charging Case™ is a touchscreen charging case for wireless earbuds that allows users to control listening features without using their smartphone.

A touchscreen that puts you in control

A touchscreen charging case lets you access supported listening controls directly from the case. With the JBL Live 4 series, the JBL Smart Charging Case™ introduces JBL Smart OS 3.0, delivering enhanced controls, features, notifications, EQ settings and personalization options. Combined with a redesigned user interface and larger touchscreen, it brings greater convenience and control to your everyday listening.

Whether you're commuting, working, or relaxing at home, having controls within easy reach can make your listening experience more convenient. Skip tracks, adjust settings, and stay in control without reaching for your phone. You can also see incoming calls and messages, answer calls or mute your microphone during a call, all without touching your phone.

Personalize how you listen

Everyone listens differently, and the JBL Smart Charging Case™ makes it easier to tailor your experience. Adjust EQ settings through the touchscreen to tailor your sound and alter supported listening settings to suit your surroundings. Whether you want to focus on your favorite playlist during a busy commute or enjoy a podcast with fewer distractions, you can make adjustments without interrupting your routine.

The case also offers screen personalization options, including background themes or a favorite picture. These features give you more control and allow you to add a personal touch to an accessory you carry everyday.

Is a touchscreen earbud charging case useful?

The value of a touchscreen case comes down to use. A traditional charging case stores and charges your earbuds, while a smart case can provide additional ways to access controls and customize settings.

For listeners who regularly adjust their sound, want easier access to supported features or carry their phone in their bag, a touchscreen can make those interactions more straightforward. It also brings more functionality into an accessory you already carry, without requiring you to rely on your phone for every adjustment.
