A Culture of Trust Leads to Finding Solutions for Customers

At Textron Aviation, one of our values is to be trustworthy. We understand that trust is earned with years of reliability and commitment. Our customers, employees and community count on us to deliver.

For Demetrias Jones, Manager in Information Technology, the culture of trust is how he helps others. “There’s nothing more motivating than knowing someone can count on me,” Jones said.

Jones is committed to working through hard questions to find solutions for our customers and business.

“We have to build that trust... because at the end of the day, it takes the entire organization to build a plane.”

— Demetrias Jones, Information Technology Manager
