Collaboration Utilizes our Best Resource, People

At Textron Aviation, we consider how our actions will help our customers and the business move forward as one team. Collaboration is essential to our success in delivering the best aviation experience to our customers.

Daniel Butherus, a supervisor in experimental engineering, says that no single idea is as important as the end goal, which are successful results for the Textron Aviation team and our customers.

“Being Collaborative means that you truly understand our best resource, which is people.”

— Daniel Butherus, Experimental Engineering Supervisor

Daniel’s team and every team at Textron Aviation collaborate to drive success and deliver results for our customers.
