Miami, FL, (December 14th, 2021) – Following huge success across multiple European cities and the United States, Exhibition Hub, and Fever the creators of “Van Gogh: The Immersive Experience,” are now heading to Miami with “Klimt: The Immersive Experience.”

Exhibition Hub, the entertainment producers, and Fever, the leading entertainment discovery platform invite visitors to step into Klimt's most famous masterpieces in a 360-degree digital art experience. By using floor-to-ceiling large-scale digital projections in an expansive 20,000 square foot light and sound space, the exhibition gives visitors the opportunity to step into a wonderland of moving paintings and be amazed by the golden universe of the Austrian modernist.

The entire experience sets the gold standard for the future of immersive experiences through state-of-the-art video mapping technology, used by only a handful of companies in the world, to create a truly immersive experience that provides its audience with a new, intimate understanding of this modernist genius and his work. Klimt: The Immersive Experience features a one-of-a-kind Virtual Reality component, which guides visitors on a ten-minute journey through "A day in the life of the Artist" to get a chance to walk alongside Klimt during this peaceful, visually-rich journey to discover the inspiration behind eight of his iconic works.
