DINOS ALIVE: An Immersive Experience Comes to Washington DC This Fall. Tickets On Sale Now.

This family- friendly dinosaur experience will transport you back millions of years

Washington D.C, (August 11, 2022) - After a hugely successful run in Los Angeles, Exhibition Hub, the leader in immersive digital art experiences in partnership with Fever, the leading entertainment discovery platform, brings the groundbreaking exhibition: Dinos Alive: An Immersive Experience to Washington, DC. Welcoming guests of all ages, the exhibit will open this October, and continue for a limited time at the Rhode Island Center, which currently houses the widely popular Van Gogh: The Immersive Experience brought to you by the same partners. Tickets are on sale now.

Washingtonians will be able to meet and interact with more than 80 famous dinosaur specimens including the gigantic T-rex and Stegosaurus and Velociraptor and much more. With the help of realistic, life-size installations and moving replicas, Dinos Alive takes you back to the land of giants, bringing you face-to-face with the creatures that dominated the animal world for 140 million years.

In addition to moving animatronics, the exhibit will feature a virtual aquarium where guests can immerse themselves into the deep sea and experience the Jurassic sea giants in their natural habitat. The 45-75 minute experience brings these incredible creatures back to life through fun, interactive and educational programs.
