July 2026 - Fever, the leading global live-entertainment discovery platform, today announced an exclusive partnership with Sunny Hill Festival to become its Official International Ticketing Partners. The collaboration establishes Fever as the exclusive gateway for global music fans heading to Kosovo, streamlining international ticket distribution and expanding the festival's footprint to millions of live-entertainment seekers across more than 40 countries.

As Sunny Hill Festival, already shortlisted alongside industry titans like Primavera Sound, Rock Werchter, and Sziget, continues its trajectory as one of Europe's most prominent destination festivals, Fever will leverage their combined technology-driven marketing and comprehensive music distribution networks to drive international tourism to the region.

Taking place from July 31st to August 2nd, the 2026 edition features a massive lineup of global superstars and electronic music icons, including global pop icon Katy Perry, electronic superstar Martin Garrix, UK tech-house powerhouse PAWSA, Seth Troxler, Carlita, and Adam Port and Rampa of the acclaimed German collective Keinemusik.

The festival is also steadily expanding its musical bill, with additional international acts joining the roster in the coming weeks. These upcoming artists will perform across four different festival stages, offering a broader and more diverse musical experience for this year's attendees.

By cross-listing the festival across both the Fever and DICE ecosystems, the partnership will lower barriers for global travelers, fostering cultural exchange and amplifying the festival's immense economic impact, which currently contributes significantly to the region's tourism and GDP.

“Sunny Hill Festival has rapidly evolved into a massive cultural phenomenon and a vital economic driver for the region,” said Dukagjin “Dugi” Lipa, executive manager of Dua Lipa. “Partnering with Sunny Hill allows us to deploy the full power of the Fever distribution network. We are thrilled to make this incredible lineup accessible to an international audience, putting fans first and helping scale this world-class festival into a true global destination for music lovers.”

Beyond the music, the partnership will continue to bolster Sunny Hill's deep commitment to regional development. A portion of the festival's momentum directly supports its foundation, which currently funds STEM scholarships for young women and builds cross-border creative talent pipelines.
