History comes to life like never before with Titanic: A Voyage Through Time, a groundbreaking immersive virtual reality experience set to open on 11 June at The Galleries, inviting audiences to step aboard the legendary ship and relive its story from an unprecedented perspective. Guests can sign up for the waitlist at <https://titanicexperiencevr.com/bristol/>.

Developed in collaboration with Musealia experts to ensure the highest level of historical accuracy, Titanic: A Voyage Through Time begins nearly 3.8 kilometers beneath the ocean's surface, where guests encounter the Titanic's wreckage as it rests today. From there, visitors travel back in time to 1912, where they will experience the ship in all its grandeur at the height of its maiden voyage.

Guests walk the iconic Grand Staircase, explore lavish dining rooms and private cabins, and encounter historical figures who shaped the Titanic's legacy. Through cinematic storytelling and meticulously detailed reconstruction, the experience offers a powerful and deeply human journey through one of history's most compelling maritime stories.

Titanic: A Voyage Through Time is uniquely defined by its interactive design, allowing visitors to not only witness history, but actively participate in it. Upon boarding, guests receive a personalized boarding pass, post it in the ship's mailbox, and enter the ship as first-class passengers. Inside their private cabin they unpack their luggage, while in the engine room they help fuel the ship by tossing coal into the fire. These hands-on, immersive moments uniquely bring the Titanic's history to life, with every detail designed to make participants feel as though they are truly aboard the fabled vessel.
