Mixed motor sports props - the new betting trend in time for Memorial Day weekend

On May 28th, the iconic cities of Monaco, Indianapolis, and Charlotte will come alive with the thrill and spills of high-octane motor sports and BetUS is set to amplify the excitement with an innovative Mixed Motor Sports betting menu, meticulously curated to cater to every fan's taste, whether their heart bets for Formula 1, IndyCar, NASCAR – or in the case of our newest wagering options – all of the above!

For example, how about placing a bet on your choice of Pato O'Ward or Scott Dixon to conquer the Indy 500 while Max Verstappen triumphs at the Monaco GP? Either of these parlay-style bets offer far bigger returns than betting the drivers individually, paying out $1,000 for every $100 bet (+900 odds).

Looking for an even bigger payout? BetUS offers the option to predict podium finishers. Our top combination features O'Ward, Verstappen, and NASCAR's Kyle Larson – a trio that, if they all secure a top three finish, could net bettors an impressive \$2,600 for every \$100 bet \(+2500 odds\).

But the thrills don't stop there. At BetUS, fans can wager on their favorite racing teams' performances, and we're even offering betting lines on qualification rounds. Whether it's the pursuit of fastest lap times, pole positions, or betting on the collective performance of a team, BetUS has a customized wager for every fan's preference.

As fans gear up for the Memorial Day weekend races, your audience has the opportunity to add to the adrenaline and even leverage their motor sports knowledge and passion for profit. Our customers tell us that the only thing that makes auto racing more exciting is having a "horse" (or car!) in the race, as the saying goes.

Feel free to contact me if you could use additional information, quotes or images to support your coverage of any of these races. Our expert analysts are also available for additional commentary or interview, and have years of experience as guests on television, radio and podcasts.
