

Meet the Experts Bringing Sports Insight to BetUS

BetUS TV's Crossing Lines has hit the ground running, and it is already the most talked-about sports betting program in the industry. The daily show features some of the sharpest handicapping minds in the business as well as special appearances from former professional athletes like Hall of Fame running back Marshall Faulk.

Crossing Lines: Where Sports Meet Strategy

BetUS TV has launched a groundbreaking daily sports betting show, "Crossing Lines", featuring the most seasoned professionals in the industry and insights from former professional athletes who bring a unique perspective to the art of sports betting analysis.

Crossing Lines is a no-holds-barred sports betting show that thrives on divergent views and lusty debate while providing viewers with facts, stats, and data that can be the difference between covering and losing. During each show, our panelists' BetUS expert picks will be on full display, allowing those watching to evaluate the analysis and gain an edge in the bets they make.

Donnie "Rightside" Seymour and Jeff Nadu, two of the most recognizable names in the gaming industry, are the hosts of Crossing Lines and share their thoughts on daily and weekly games as well as end-of-season futures like Coach of the Year, Rookie of the Year, and MVP for those who like to bet on the NFL and have action all season long.

But college and professional football will not be the only sports discussed, as guests like former Premier League soccer player Gordon "Flash" Watson and retired UFC fighter and former STRIKEFORCE Champion Josh Thompson will also lend their unique insights on their respective sports.

And as the summer gives way to autumn, the MLB playoff races will arrive with a vengeance, making former Texas Rangers hurler Derek Holland a welcome addition to the Crossing Lines panel. There is nothing like betting on the Boys of Summer when they are playing in October.

All topics are on the table while using the latest lines from the BetUS Sportsbook. Cashing in on flat bets, parlays, round robins, player props, and so much more will be the sole aim of this program. But with lively personalities like Donnie RightSide and Jeff Nadu orchestrating the conversation, there will be no dull moments.

BetUS TV is streaming new Crossing Lines episodes starting at noontime on Monday through Friday, with previous episodes also available. We welcome everyone to follow @CrossingXLines on X for the latest schedule, guests, and BetUS promotions.
