

BetUS Offers 2026 Midterm Election Betting Odds

The 2026 midterm elections are looming, and BetUS has a full betting menu focused on the fight to control Congress. Therefore, now is a great time to welcome anyone who has ever wondered how and where to bet on politics. BetUS has been the leader in political betting for decades, and our range of options keeps growing.

How to Bet on Politics

BetUS is the hub of election betting odds, as we have an entire section of our site exclusively dedicated to US and international political bets. The midterm elections in the United States are on the horizon, and what better time than now to introduce our 2026 midterm odds?

Political betting is as easy as betting on any sporting event that offers a moneyline. The candidates each have odds next to their name, and if the number is preceded by a plus sign (+), the profit will be higher than the risk. For example, if Candidate A is +250 to win their race, then a $100 bet would yield a $250 profit and a return of 350(100 bet + $250 profit = $350 return).

If the candidate has a minus sign (-) before their odds, it means the risk will be greater than the potential profit. An example is if Candidate B is -250 to win their race, then a $250 bet would be needed to return a $100 profit, which would result in a total of 350(250 bet + $100 profit = $350 return).

What Political Races Are Available?

BetUS features a wide range of political betting options, including odds on governor's races as well as House of Representatives elections. Of course, we also have the 2026 Senate odds and a look-ahead to the 2028 presidential election with odds currently available on all the potential candidates.

Those who are curious about some of the most hotly contested political races are welcome to explore all of our election betting odds. As of this writing, governor's races in Georgia and Nevada are running neck and neck. For a closer look at BetUS's odds on both these races, we see the following:

Who Will Win The 2026 Gubernatorial Race In Georgia?

Rick Jackson (R) -110

Keisha Lance Bottoms (D) -130

At this moment, we see that Democrat Keisha Lance Bottoms is the slight favorite at -130 versus -110 for her Republican adversary, Rick Jackson.

Who Will Win The 2026 Gubernatorial Race In Nevada?

Joe Lombardo (R) -125

Aaron Ford (D) -115

In the Silver State, we see that the Republican, Joe Lombardo, is the slight favorite at odds of -125 compared to his Democratic foe, Aaron Ford, currently installed as a -115 underdog.

It is important to note that political betting odds are dynamic and can fluctuate exactly the same as odds on sporting events.

But gubernatorial, Senate, and congressional races are hardly the length and breadth of BetUS's political betting menu, as we also have special props on well-known figures like President Donald Trump, Stephen A. Smith, and Elon Musk, to name a noteworthy few.

BetUS also has a political news section to keep our readers informed and aware of the latest political trends that can affect the betting markets. It's all here under one expansive digital roof, and we welcome everyone to find out for themselves why BetUS is the only online betting platform that does politics right.
