

GET READY FOR SPRING – URBAN RIDES & NEW ADVENTURES

New rides, new routes and fresh adventures are waiting. With Canyon, spring marks the beginning of a new cycling season defined by movement, exploration, and freedom on two wheels. As days get longer and temperatures rise, it's the perfect time to gear up - whether for everyday city rides or performance-driven adventures beyond the urban landscape.

We've put together a summary of what's interesting for media tests, and some potential storylines – take a look and see if anything piques your interest.

City ready: bikes & gear for the urban explorer

Spring is when urban cycling truly comes into its own. City streets invite effortless movement - whether commuting, running errands, or enjoying relaxed rides through town.

What's interesting to test?

The Citylite:ON stands for sleek, minimalist urban mobility, designed for daily routines like dropping off the kids, picking up groceries, or commuting in style. Built-in lights, fenders and multiple racks add practicality to the mix, making it the perfect companion for city cyclists.

For those who want more range, the Pathlite:ON family extends urban riding beyond the city limits. With two models – both robust, reliable, and comfortable – it's made for weekend trips into nature, family adventures, and rides to the lake. The Pathlite:ON SUV brings additional range and power, while the Pathlite:ONfly combines adventure readiness with a lighter weight.

Both the Citylite:ON and Pathlite:ON are compatible with a versatile range of urban accessories. Child seats, bags, and baskets make them a flexible companion in modern city life. With the right setup, urban riding in spring is all about your kind of ride - adaptable, practical, and perfectly tailored to you.

Rider's Choice

"As a new mum, my days look very different, so I use the Citylite:ON for simple rides into town – going to the grocery store or just getting some fresh air. I like that it feels light and agile, very natural to ride. It keeps that dynamic feeling I've always loved, while fitting perfectly into my everyday routine. "

Sporty rides – gear up for every terrain

Beyond the city, spring signals the return of focused training, long days in the saddle, and off-road exploration. Across road, gravel, and MTB, the right gear becomes the foundation for performance, comfort, and confidence.

Road

As spring settles in and the days open up, road riding is all about rhythm, focus, and pushing personal limits. Longer hours on the asphalt demand gear that feels fast, efficient, and effortless.

What's interesting to test?

Inspired by the highest level of Canyon's CFR road gear is engineered for performance riding: Aerodynamic protection from the Stingr CFR Helmet, precise power transfer through the Tempr CFR Road Shoes and lightweight CFR Apparel including the new CFR Vest, supporting speed and efficiency in changing conditions.

To keep every ride clean, streamlined and ready for the distance, smart essentials such as bottle cages and front and rear lights, along with the 3-in-1 minitool, round out a setup built for long days on the road.

Rider's Choice

"After the colder season, spring is all about getting back out there and building form, finding your rhythm again and spending long, focused hours on the road. With Canyon's CFR road apparel, you not only look and feel good – every piece is light and perfectly fitted, so you can concentrate fully on the effort. That's where the foundation for the season is laid. "

Gravel

Where paved roads end, gravel riding begins - defined by freedom and ever-changing terrain.

What's interesting to test?

Designed for control and comfort off the beaten path, Canyon's gravel gear combines protection, grip and long-distance support. The Disruptr CFR Helmet and the Tempr CFR Offroad Shoes deliver stability and confidence across mixed surfaces, while the Core apparel collection and smart pieces like the Millet Hydration Vest are built to keep you comfortable on extended rides.

For riders heading further into discovery, small practical additions such as the LOAD Tool Pack, bikepacking accessories for Grizl and Grail, or high-level upgrades with the GR 30 CF Wheels balance performance with exploration, wherever the route leads.

MTB

As trails dry out, mountain biking returns in full force. Built for demanding terrain, Canyon's MTB gear focuses on protection, durability and control.

What's interesting to test?

The new Deflectr Helmet and Scampr Trail Shoes provide stability and grip on technical runs, while the new line-up of MTB Backpacks delivers integrated protectors and tailored space – thanks to three available volumes - so you can focus fully on the flow of the trail.

With Canyon, spring is about motion, freedom, and the confidence to go further - every day, on every terrain. Discover even more at canyon.com and share the joy of cycling, this season and beyond.
