

CUBE AND TEAM TOTALENERGIES TO END PARTNERSHIP AFTER THE 2026 SEASON

After one season together, the partnership between CUBE and French UCI ProTeam TotalEnergies will come to an end at the close of 2026. CUBE looks back on a year of valuable experiences and sporting highlights.

Throughout the partnership, CUBE supplied Team TotalEnergies and its U19 and U23 development teams with the Litening AERO, Litening AIR and Aerium TT models. The collaboration was characterised by open and constructive communication, professionalism and a strong working relationship. Feedback from the riders and performance staff provided valuable insights for the continued development of CUBE road bikes.

A key milestone was the launch of the new Litening AERO and its debut on the international racing stage. At the 2026 Tour de France, Jordan Jegat finished 10th in the general classification, marking one of the sporting highlights of the partnership.

CUBE would like to thank all riders, staff and everyone involved for their trust, dedication and professional collaboration throughout the season. We wish Team TotalEnergies every success in the future.

Further information about our team partnerships for the 2027 season will follow soon.
