CARLSBAD, Calif. (Nov. 16, 2027) — Scotty Cameron's next-generation blade and mid-mallet putters are now on the PGA Tour.

This week at Sea Island Golf Club, players competing in the RSM Classic are getting their first chance to explore Scotty's new range of designs as they work with tour reps Drew Page and Brad Cloke to dial in their setups and provide performance feedback.

"When I go out there, I like to just be a sponge and listen and watch our reps work with players, help when I can," said Austie Rollinson, Senior Director of Putter R&D for Scotty Cameron. “I get a lot of inspiration, a lot of ideas from that… So it's great to listen to these guys, just the things that they’re looking at that we may not look at day-to-day in a putter.”

Among those currently gaming a Scotty Cameron blade or mid-mallet on the PGA Tour are Michael Brennan, Ludvig Åberg, Ryan Gerard, Tom Kim, Bud Cauley, Sungjae Im and Jordan Smith.

Stay tuned to Scotty Cameron and Titleist channels as the launch of new Scotty Cameron blade and mid-mallet putters continues on the PGA Tour and across the worldwide professional tours.
