Minor Hotels, a leading global hotel owner and operator, is introducing its world-renowned luxury Anantara brand to Australia with the signing of Anantara Perth Hotel. The announcement marks a pivotal expansion for the company, bringing Anantara's celebrated Thai-inspired hospitality to one of Australia's fastest-growing capital cities.

Set to anchor the AUD $3.8 billion Burswood Point masterplanned development upon its anticipated opening in 2032, Anantara Perth will become a flagship destination on the Swan River waterfront. The newly built property is developed by Golden Sedayu, a partnership between Perth's Golden Group and Agung Sedayu, one of Indonesia's leading property developers. The hotel will feature 150 contemporary guest rooms and suites, two destination restaurants, a swimming pool, a fully equipped fitness centre and an Anantara Spa, introducing Perth to the brand's award-winning approach to wellness.

Anantara Perth joins a global collection of over 50 Anantara properties, each known for delivering immersive experiences and connecting travellers to the spirit of their destination. The luxury hotel will join Minor Hotels' portfolio of over 60 properties under its select Oaks Hotels, Resorts & Suites and premium Avani Hotels & Resorts brands in Australia.

Dillip Rajakarier, Group CEO of Minor International, parent company of Minor Hotels, commented: "We are delighted to introduce Anantara to Australia. Perth is experiencing rapid development across its urban and tourism landscape, creating the ideal environment for a property of this standard. Anantara Perth represents our commitment to expanding world-class luxury experiences into new markets."

Andrew Sugiaputra, Managing Director of Golden Sedayu added: "We are proud to partner with Minor Hotels to bring Anantara to Australia. Together we will deliver a landmark luxury hotel for Perth, defined by exceptional design, craftsmanship, and service."

Poised moments from Perth's CBD and within a short drive of both domestic and international airports, the new hotel will help define the Burswood Point as a world-class entertainment, tourism, and residential destination. Its design will embrace contemporary architecture and sustainable practices, reflecting Minor Hotels' commitment to environmentally conscious luxury.

Perth's growing reputation as a gateway to Western Australia's natural beauty further elevates the hotel's appeal. From pristine beaches and scenic parklands to world-class wineries, unique wildlife, and vibrant cultural districts, the city offers a compelling mix of exploration and relaxation for discerning travellers from Australia and around the world.
