Bangkok is set to host one of the largest international fitness races ever staged in Asia from 13 to 16 August 2026, with organisers expecting more than 22,000 competitors at Queen Sirikit National Convention Center (QSNCC) over four days. NH Bangkok Asoke, located a short walk from the venue, is a natural base for athletes, coaches and their supporters attending the race.

NH Bangkok Asoke, situated on Ratchadapisek Road near central Bangkok's Asoke intersection, offers guests easy access to QSNCC by either a 15-minute walk through Benjakitti Park or one stop via the city's MRT system. For athletes, the hotel's proximity to the race venue reduces a layer of logistics and allows them to focus on showing up ready to compete. The hotel's location adjacent to Benjakitti Park, one of the city's urban oases, gives competitors running paths to warm up or cool down, away from the convention centre's indoor bustle. With BTS and MRT stations within five minutes' walk, travellers can easily reach Sukhumvit's dining and nightlife scene or the wider city.

NH Bangkok Asoke's 95 rooms provide a comfortable base camp with everything needed before and after a busy event day. CO2, the property's all-day dining restaurant, serves a breakfast buffet featuring Thai, Mediterranean and international dishes, useful for guests managing race-day nutrition. For those looking for light and refreshing choices, NH Bangkok Asoke also offers fresh grab-and-go meals, poke bowls and afternoon tea experiences designed for easy city living. The rooftop Poolside Bar overlooks Benjakitti Park and the city skyline, a spot for teams to unwind once they cross the finish line.

For a last-minute city stay starting at THB 2,500++, guests can book directly with NH Bangkok Asoke and enjoy exclusive direct-booking benefits, including dining credits for select room categories.
