Every flight begins with people.

On National Aviation Day, McCauley Propeller Systems recognizes the employees whose precision, expertise and commitment support aircraft operators around the globe. From engineering and manufacturing to customer support, their work helps power flight for pilots, businesses and communities worldwide.

For McCauley employees, the work is about more than designing, building and supporting propellers. It is about understanding the responsibility that comes with aviation. Every decision, inspection and customer interaction contributes to a product that operators trust every day.

That sense of responsibility has defined McCauley for more than 80 years. Employees take pride in knowing their work supports everything from pilot training and business aviation to the countless missions that connect people and keep communities moving.

“People often see the passion and dedication behind it,” said Jason McCauley, President of Propeller Systems. “Our employees understand that commitment continues to earn the trust of our customers. As aviation continues to evolve, our expertise, dedication and passion keep us connected.
