Travel notes for a seamless journey

LANDSCAPE

Considered the cultural capital of Thailand, Chiang Mai has captivated visitors for centuries with stunning scenery and its relaxed pace. The remains of a storied past are evident with crumbling sections of the old walls dotted around the city. Its proximity to the Mae Ping River and major trading routes, along with its strategic position, flanked by mountains, means Chiang Mai has been of particular importance in the history of the region and as the former capital of the Lanna kingdom.

PEOPLE

One of Thailand's largest provinces, Chiang Mai is a melting pot of ethnic influences. There are a number of hill tribes located in the mountainous districts surrounding Chiang Mai, such as the Omkoi, Mae Jam, Chiang Dao and Mae Ai, who add a diverse variety to the local scene.

WEATHER

Chiang Mai weather patterns differ from the traditional divisions of spring, summer, autumn and winter. Instead, the region has three distinct seasons. The hot season between March and May is the warmest and driest period of the year with temperatures exceeding 35°C during the day. From June until October, southwest monsoons blow inland bringing moisture-laden winds from the Gulf of Thailand and Indian Ocean when temperatures range from 24°C to 31°C. November until February ushers in the cool season when dry temperatures of around 22°C to 28°C makes it a popular time to visit.

Tips for travellers

- Most visitors to Thailand are eligible for a 30-day tourist visa that can be arranged upon arrival at the airport.
- If you bring an electronic device that does not accept 220 volts (50 Hz) then you may require a voltage converter.
- Please dress modestly for any temple excursions, with shoulders and thighs covered as a mark of respect for the local culture.
- If exploring, make sure to wear comfortable shoes. It can be extremely hot during the middle of the day and the rainy season can mean short bursts of intense rain. Be sure to carry an umbrella and stay hydrated.
- Thailand's currency is the Thai baht and many restaurants and attractions accept major credit cards, including American Express, Visa, Mastercard and JCB.

Getting here

Anantara Chiang Mai Resort is located in the city's most exclusive neighbourhood which winds along the tranquil Mae Ping River. Yet it is only 15 minutes from the airport, where we will be glad to have a limousine waiting to pick you up. A car and driver can also be yours for the day to get out and explore.
