Del Webb recently celebrated a major milestone at Del Webb Desert Retreat with the official groundbreaking of the community's future resort-style clubhouse, the social centerpiece of the new active-adult neighborhood.

The Mayor of Indio and local leadership celebrate the groundbreaking of Del Webb Desert Retreat clubhouse

Community leaders, project partners, and team members gathered to commemorate the occasion, including Norman Brown, PulteGroup's Southern California Division President, and Elaine Holmes, Mayor of the City of Indio, who joined in the ceremonial shovel turn marking the next phase of development for the highly anticipated 55+ community.

Once complete, the clubhouse will offer residents a wide range of resort-style amenities designed to support active and social living, including a fitness center and aerobics studio, an indoor golf simulator, a ballroom, arts and billiards rooms, a food and beverage bar, and a resort-style pool and Jacuzzi.

"The clubhouse will be so much more than just an amenity center. It represents the heart of the community and the lifestyle our residents are looking for, said Brown. It's where neighbors will gather, friendships will form, and residents can enjoy the activities, experiences, and connections that make Del Webb communities so special."

Del Webb Desert Retreat marks Del Webb's return to Indio and the Greater Palm Springs region, where the builder has delivered more than 10,000 homes throughout the Coachella Valley over its long history in the market.

Construction of the clubhouse is being supported by RCS Construction Management and Capital Building Services.

The gated community will feature homes ranging from approximately 1,444 to 2,722 square feet with flexible floor plans offering 2–3 bedrooms and 2–2.5 bathrooms. Pricing starts in the mid-$400,000s.

The clubhouse is expected to be completed in the summer of 2027.
